Providence, RI – October 13, 2008 – LearningGate Computer Learning Center's Director of Strategic Alliance, Richard Brown, today announced that Learning Gate will be offering a Microsoft Office Technologies Training Grant Program to Rhode Island area companies and organizations.

LearningGate's management recently attended the RI Innovation Awards & Tech Laureates Night, where they listened to Governor Donald L. Carcieri and others speak about the importance of technology to our state's future and stressing the need for both companies and individuals to help make a difference. After the event LearningGate CLC management felt inspired to look at how LearningGate could do its part not only to help build and strengthen our community but also insure that the very businesses we depend upon for our client base evolve and continue to remain competitive.

With the current financial crisis many of the companies within our community have been forced to find ways of getting the job done while operating on a reduced budget. After many hours of discussion on how LearningGate, CLC could affect change in the future of our local businesses we have developed a Microsoft Office Technologies Training Grant program.

This program will reward those companies that are currently utilizing or investing in a migration to Microsoft Office 2003/ 2007 by making available to each recipient up to $50,000.00 in LearningGate training. The awarded training will be based on the organizations overall training plan and will be delivered using Learning Gate's cutting edge Mobile On-Demand Instruction. "This program will allow companies that are faced with reductions in their budgets to jumpstart their learning and get the training that they need immediately, with no cost or obligation for future training." Richard Brown, Director, Strategic Alliance.
